Hello from M'Lop Tapang!

As social media keeps growing and growing, and knowing how busy everyone is, we doesn't always have the time to check every Facebook, YouTube, and Twitter post. We wanted to take the opportunity and share just a few of our favorite posts from the last couple of months in case you missed them; a few short videos and a link to a research results. Hopefully these little tidbits give you a glimpse into how much your support is making a difference in the lives of children and families that M'Lop Tapang works with.

As always, if you ever have any questions or feedback you would like to share with us, don't hesitate to email and let us know.

Arts have always been a way to engage the children we work with and a wonderful way to teach life skills such as cooperation, teamwork, and concentration. Arts can also help to increase a child's self-esteem and social network.

"We come from poor families and therefore we face many challenges. sometimes when things get hard, we decide to stop our studies to do something else, and throw it all away, but this is not the right way to go."

"M'Lop Tapang helped me to have a job when I had no job. The extra income has helped reduce my worrying and now we have money to buy food and send my children to school."

We recently completed a research project looking at the impact of our Outreach Team's Small Business Set-up program. Read the report.

As most of you know already, Eve Saosarin, M'Lop Tapang's longtime Director, has recently left us. Those of you who know him will not be surprised that he received a scholarship to complete a Master's Degree (in Australia). It will be quite an adventure for Sarin and his family and we wish him all the best of luck.

In case you missed it before on our social media, here is Sarin's farewell message.

Another familiar face that some of you know already is Kun. We are all very excited that Kun, who has been here at M'Lop Tapang for about 10 years, has been promoted to the position of Co-Director.

"It is an exciting step for me. A lot of work to do but I am so grateful to be working as part of such a great team here. I look forward to meeting more of M'Lop Tapang's friends and supporters when they visit us here in Sihanoukville."

M'Lop Tapang has been working with disadvantaged children, youth, and families since 2003.
